Art Unit: 2152

1. Claims 1-56, 58, 60-62, 67 and 69-71 have been cancelled. Claims 77 and 78 have been newly added. Claims 57, 59, 63-66, 68 and 72-78 are now pending.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 57, 59, 63-66, 68 and 72-78 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dunworth et al., US Pat. No. 5,930,474 in view of Hidary et al., US Pat. No. 5,778,181 and further in view of Ozaki et al., US Pat. No. 5,991,798.

4. As to claims 57, 64, 65, 66, 68 and 75-78, Dunworth teaches the invention substantially as claimed. Dunworth teaches an information acquisition apparatus for communicating with at least one information server through a communication network, such as the internet, comprising:

reading means for reading information stored in an information recording medium;

address-information acquisition means for acquiring address information... said address information corresponding to an address of said information server provided with related information related to said information recording medium (Dunworth, col. 2, line 42 – col. 4, line 39 and col. 7, line 48 – col. 8, line 36); and related-information acquisition means for accessing said information server based on said address information acquired by said address-information acquisition means so that said

related information related to said information recording medium can be acquired from said information server (Dunworth, col. 7, line 48 – col. 8, line 36), wherein said related information includes at least one information of a list of music title, a lyric, a singer, a homepage of the singer, a lyricist, a composer, a title of the information recording medium, a picture of a jacket of the information recording medium, and a producer of the information recording medium ().

However, Dunworth does not explicitly teach that address-information acquisition means for acquiring address information is initiated automatically as a result of said information being read out by said reading means. In the same field of endeavor, Hidary teaches a system for incorporating and displaying retrieved integrated internet information wherein the methods of acquiring address information and accessing the remote server are performed automatically (Hidary, col. 3, lines 39-67).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have incorporated the automatic retrieval method as taught by Hidary into the system of Dunworth since it is desirable to automate processes for enhanced user-friendliness and efficiency.

Dunworth-Hidary does not explicitly teach the reading means is responsive to the setting of an information recording medium, for reading information stored in said set information recording medium and the address-information acquisition means for acquiring an address position of a homepage provided in said information. In the same field of endeavor, Ozaki teaches a package medium system having URL information wherein homepage URL information is automatically retrieved from a readable medium responsive to the setting/inserting of the medium into the reading device (Ozaki, col. 4, line 35 – col. 7, line 30). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have incorporated automatic retrieval features as taught by Ozaki into the system of Dunworth-Hidary for the purpose of providing alternate means of disseminating the related information.

5. As to claims 59 and 73, Dunworth-Hidary-Ozaki teaches display controls (Dunworth, col. 3, lines 31-45).

6. As to claims 63 and 72, Dunworth-Hidary-Ozaki teaches transmitting identifying information to the server (Dunworth, col. 2, line 42 – col. 4, line 39).

7. As to claims 74, Dunworth-Hidary-Ozaki teaches accessing address information when storage medium is set in a reading device (Dunworth, col. 7, line 48 – col. 8, line 36).

8. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 57, 59, 63-66, 68 and 72-78 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

The Applicant argued in substance that the prior art of record does not teach the newly added features of the recording means, after setting an information recording medium, for reading information automatically, indicating a homepage address. The new grounds of rejection teaches this feature.

Art Unit: 2152

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
